

The West Grand pump station upgrade is about to begin! Expect to see the Pizzagalli Construction Company mobilizing in March and they will begin demolition in April. Although most of the construction will take place inside the pump station, a new emergency generator will be placed where the fuel tank currently sits. There will be some heavy equipment moving in and out of the site and portable pumps will be set up to keep the flow going to the wastewater facility. Although neighbors may hear some background noise, I have been assured that these pumps will not be a major disturbance. Please be aware that the pump station area will be considered a construction site and will be clearly marked as such. The current schedule estimates that substantial completion will be reached by December of this year.

Pizzagalli Construction Company was the low bidder on the project and will be working under the direction of the engineering firm of Wright-Pierce. I would respectfully request that residents do not approach employees of Pizzagalli with questions about the project.

Residents that have concerns or wish to know more information should contact Chris White at 934-4416.